Freeport-McMoRan Inc. (we, us, FCX or the Company) is dedicated to the recognition and respect of human rights wherever we do business. We are a leading international metals company with the objective of being foremost in copper. Headquartered in Phoenix, Arizona, we operate large, long-lived, geographically diverse assets with significant proven and probable mineral reserves of copper, gold and molybdenum. Our portfolio of assets includes PT Freeport Indonesia's (PTFI) Grasberg minerals district in Indonesia (PTFI Grasberg), one of the world's largest copper and gold deposits; and significant operations in the United States (U.S.) and South America, including the large-scale Morenci minerals district in Arizona and the Cerro Verde operation in Peru.

Respect is a core value that guides how we do business. We recognize and respect the rights of all individuals, including employees, contractors, business partners, local communities, Indigenous Peoples and others who may be impacted by our business activities. We take this obligation seriously in all aspects of our business, and we expect the same of our business partners. FCX's Human Rights Policy states our commitments to respecting internationally recognized human rights standards, including the rights under the International Bill of Human Rights, and to implementing both the United Nations Guiding Principles on Business and Human Rights (UNGPs) and the Voluntary Principles on Security and Human Rights (Voluntary Principles).

The Voluntary Principles serve as a key component of our broader human rights program. Not all human rights issues are security issues, and not all security issues are human rights issues; it is at the nexus of security and human rights where our implementation of the Voluntary Principles resides.

This report summarizes our security and human rights program, including implementation activities, events and incidents that occurred during 2025, unless otherwise noted. We provide country-level implementation details for Indonesia and Peru, as these countries are considered our higher risk operating environments in terms of security and human rights. Other relevant country-level updates are also included.

A. Commitment to the Voluntary Principles

1. Public Statement of Commitment or Endorsement of the Voluntary Principles, Engagement in the Voluntary Principles Initiative and Transparency

FCX was a founding member of the Voluntary Principles Initiative (VPI) and has been an active participant since its inception. In 2000, FCX joined other extractive companies, governments and human rights organizations in endorsing the joint U.S. Department of State-British Foreign Office Voluntary Principles. Since that time, we have worked closely with our affiliate operations to assist in the implementation of the Voluntary Principles. The Voluntary Principles are an important cornerstone of our security and human rights program, providing guidance for our operations as well as a mechanism to drive engagement and promote awareness of and respect for human rights within our workforce and with our business partners, government and community partners. Our endorsement of the Voluntary Principles is set forth within our Annual Reports on Sustainability and annual Voluntary Principles Reports to the Plenary located on our website as part of our broader sustainability reporting. We are committed to engaging with fellow Voluntary Principles members and observers to facilitate greater understanding of our Voluntary Principles implementation.

We have incorporated our commitment to the Voluntary Principles into our Human Rights Policy as well as our Principles of Business Conduct (PBC). Our Human Rights Policy and PBC apply to all of our employees and our Board of Directors (Board). We expect our business partners, including suppliers, contractors, customers and recipients of charitable giving, to uphold and abide by the same standards, which are reflected in our Business Partner Code of Conduct (BPCC).

In 2025, Cerro Verde and El Abra participated in the VPI's In-Country Working Groups in Peru and Chile (please see Part C). At the VPI-level, we attended Corporate Pillar and Secretariat meetings throughout the year.

Annually, we voluntarily report on our performance, including our human rights performance, against established sustainability reporting standards. FCX's 2025 Annual Report on Sustainability was prepared in reference to the Global Reporting Initiative (GRI) Sustainability Reporting Standards (2021) and GRI 14: Mining Sector 2024, as well as in alignment with the International Financial Reporting Standards Foundation's SASB Standards for the Metals & Mining industry (2023). Our annual reports on sustainability have been independently verified since 2005. Limited assurance of our 2025 Annual Report on Sustainability was obtained from an independent public accounting firm, and the firm's assurance statement is published on pages 112 and 113 of the report.

We demonstrate our responsible production performance through the Copper Mark. To achieve the Copper Mark, each site is required to complete an independent external assurance process, including workforce and external stakeholder interviews, to assess conformance with various environmental, social and governance criteria, including implementation of the Voluntary Principles. Awarded sites must be revalidated every three years. FCX has achieved, and is committed to maintaining, the Copper Mark and Molybdenum Mark, as applicable, at all of its operating sites globally. We leverage this process to implement the Corporate Pillar Verification Framework, which entails having a process to verify that we are meeting our responsibilities as a VPI member. Our Voluntary Principles report is also reviewed by an independent public accounting firm for consistency with our annual sustainability report assurance process.

2. Examples of Promoting Awareness of the Voluntary Principles Throughout Our Organization, Including Within the Value Chain

Human rights standards are built into the terms and conditions of our business partner contracts. Business partners receive, and are expected to perform in accordance with, our BPCC and Human Rights Policy.

Training is a core component of our approach to embedding respect for human rights across our business and promoting awareness of the Voluntary Principles. For more information on global training initiatives, please see Part B.4.

For other examples of how we promote awareness of the Voluntary Principles at the country level, including with host governments and authorities, please see Part C.

3. Examples of Promoting and Advancing Implementation of the Voluntary Principles Internationally

We proactively engage with financial and other stakeholders on security and human rights issues, including our implementation of the Voluntary Principles, and we also frequently engage stakeholders at their request. We continue to participate in BSR's human rights working group, which provides a forum for gaining insight from companies across multiple industrial sectors on methods for integration of the UNGPs into our business practices. We also participate in and engage with the Corporate Human Rights Benchmark, which assesses our performance related to a set of human rights indicators based on publicly available information, including our participation in the VPI and implementation of the Voluntary Principles.

For other examples of how we promote awareness and advance implementation of the Voluntary Principles at the country level, please see Part C.

B. Policies, Procedures and Related Activities

4. Relevant Policies, Procedures and Guidelines to Implement the Voluntary Principles

Our commitment to respect human rights is supported by our various policies, including the following:

Policy	Intent
Human Rights	Outlines our dedication to the recognition and respect of human rights for all individuals, including employees, contractors, business partners, host communities, Indigenous Peoples and other stakeholders who may be affected by our business activities. Includes our commitments to implementing the Voluntary Principles; engaging with internal and external stakeholders to inform our human rights strategy; and prohibiting all forms of retaliation against individuals who peacefully promote and defend human rights.
Principles of Business Conduct	Reflects our core values – Safety, Respect, Integrity, Excellence and Commitment – and provides guidance for applying these values in daily business, from top-level management to entry-level employees. Sets forth global principles that our workforce must follow in all activities, including the Voluntary Principles.
Business Partner Code of Conduct	Outlines the expectations for our business partners, including private security contractors, to meet our ethical business conduct standards, including our Human Rights Policy.
Social Performance	Calls for collaboration with project-affected communities, including Indigenous Peoples and vulnerable populations, and outlines our commitment to mitigating and remedying adverse impacts we may cause.

Governance. At the Board level, the Corporate Responsibility Committee provides oversight of our human rights program and periodically receives reports on relevant human rights updates, including progress on human rights impact assessments (HRIAs). At the management level, the Sustainability Leadership Team provides oversight of human rights, with the program directed and managed by our corporate and site-level sustainability teams. Our cross-functional human rights working group, co-led by our regional human rights managers, is focused on driving our strategy globally and supporting site-level implementation of the UNGPs and integration of human rights considerations across our business.

Our corporate and site-level human rights and sustainability teams collaborate across our operations on an ongoing basis, working to educate and inform the business of human rights risks and mitigation strategies. In 2025, our global human rights team held regular meetings with operating sites located in areas considered to have higher human rights risks to discuss and address complex issues, enabling our operations to adapt quickly and keep respect for human rights at the forefront. FCX has established Human Rights Compliance Officer (HRCO) roles at PTFI and Cerro Verde, where the operating environments are considered higher risk in terms of security and human rights, as well as at El Abra. HRCOs lead training for security personnel (both employees and contractors) and host government security forces (as applicable) on human rights and the Voluntary Principles.

Training and Promotion. We conduct comprehensive training on FCX's employee code of conduct, the PBC, which incorporates our commitment to the Voluntary Principles and links to our Human Rights Policy. All new employees receive training as part of the onboarding process, and refresher training on the PBC is provided annually. We aim to promote awareness of our Human Rights Policy and the Voluntary Principles through a variety of mechanisms, including annual training in classrooms and online training classes, distribution of pamphlets and other media for managers, and periodic training for non-managers on a rotating basis.

In 2025, we continued to implement a global human rights training module for use across FCX at both the corporate and operational levels. The training module is assigned to employees in departments where exposure to human rights risks is higher, as well as to all people managers and senior leaders across the company. The focal point of the training is on company and employee responsibilities when it comes to the promotion of and respect for human rights, including security and human rights within the context of our operations. In 2025, more than 3,500 employees completed the global human rights training module.

For more information on training implementation at the country level, please see Part C.

5. Company Procedure to Conduct Security and Human Rights Risk Assessments, and Integrate Findings

Human Rights Impact Assessments. HRIAs, conducted by third-party consultants using methodologies aligned with the UNGPs, are our primary method for conducting human rights due diligence at our active operations. These assessments involve direct input from a broad cross-section of internal and external rights-holders and their representatives, including a sampling of employees, on-site contractors, local suppliers and community members. The process supports continuous improvement of our management systems by testing their effectiveness in identifying and addressing potential, actual and perceived security and human rights risks and impacts. As part of our HRIA process, we receive feedback from both internal and external stakeholders on how our grievance mechanisms are performing against the UNGPs effectiveness criteria, which helps drive continuous improvement.

For updates on HRIAs completed or initiated in 2025, please see Part C.

Sustainability Risk Register. Defined in a global standard operating procedure, the sustainability risk register process uses a risk assessment matrix to prioritize risks based on their likelihood and consequence, using functional-area-specific impact definitions to drive action. Risk to people is considered across topics, with the Voluntary Principles risk assessment framework providing the basis for security risk assessments. All our sites review their operational risk profiles at least annually and prepare detailed action plans for risks rated as actionable. The sustainability risk register and action plans are the foundation of our internal processes for understanding site-level risk and our external assurance program at both the corporate level and at operating sites.

Project Development Sustainability Review. The Project Development Sustainability Review (PDSR) considers sustainability issues during the study of potential mine expansion and development projects. The PDSR process enables us to proactively identify, prioritize and manage potential risks, including those related to security and human rights, throughout the development stages prior to beginning construction. The PDSR is maintained and updated during construction, ultimately serving as a key input to the sustainability risk register once a project is operational. As an example, the PDSR process is underway at El Abra to identify risks and related action plans for a potential expansion project.

The sustainability risk register and PDSR processes are informed by ongoing internal and external stakeholder engagement, our grievance mechanisms and the findings from our HRIAs.

Responsible Sourcing Programs. Our responsible sourcing programs require human rights due diligence on suppliers of both goods and services, and minerals and metals for further processing. One tool used to gather critical data on business partners, including private security contractors, is the Freeport Compliance eXchange (FCeX), an online, survey-based due diligence platform that allows us to distribute a compliance questionnaire addressing anti-corruption, international trade, human rights, environment, and health and safety risks among others. This platform enhances our ability to communicate with suppliers to share relevant FCX policies, screen their internal policies and structures, and assess supplier commitments and actions for minerals and metals sourcing. Suppliers assessed in FCeX as low risk are reevaluated every three years, while higher-risk suppliers are reevaluated annually. See page 33 of our 2025 Annual Report on Sustainability for more information.

6. Company Mechanism to Report Security-Related Incidents with Human Rights Implications by Public/Private Security Forces Relating to the Company's Activities

HRCOs receive, document and follow up on reported human rights incidents, grievances and allegations, including those relating to the conduct of public and private security personnel. We actively communicate about the responsibilities of, and ways to contact, HRCOs to employees, business partners and community groups.

All members of our workforce have access to our Compliance Line, a hotline managed by an independent third party that allows for anonymous reporting (refer to PBC pages 42-43 for additional information). The Compliance Line is also available to members of our supply chain via our Business Partner Code of Conduct (refer to page 15 for additional information). While all sites can utilize the Compliance Line for anonymous reporting, Cerro Verde and El Abra also have physical drop boxes for anonymous reporting. We have also incorporated human rights into our community grievance mechanism, which is implemented at each site to collect community grievances including those potentially related to human rights and/or security.

Site-level HRCOs report human rights incidents, grievances or allegations to site-level management, the global human rights team, as well as legal counsel as appropriate. Allegations related to public security providers are reported to the appropriate government institutions for investigation and, when appropriate, to urge action to prevent recurrence.

As outlined in our Human Rights Policy, FCX does not tolerate retaliation against anyone who raises concerns or reports a human rights violation. When requested, we seek to protect the confidentiality of anyone who reports potential violations. Furthermore, use of our internal and external grievance mechanisms does not preclude access to judicial or other non-judicial grievance mechanisms.

For examples of how we implemented this reporting mechanism at the country level, please see Part C.

7. Company Procedure to Consider the Voluntary Principles in Entering into Relations with Private Security Providers

We conduct due diligence on private security contractors prior to contracting through our responsible sourcing programs outlined above. Contracts with private security providers include requirements to comply with our Human Rights Policy (and, by extension, the Voluntary Principles). Security contractors in Indonesia, Peru and Chile also receive human rights training and instructions to immediately notify the site-level HRCO of any human rights-related incidents, grievances or allegations.

For country level descriptions of training provided to private security contractors, please see Part C.

8. Company Mechanism to Investigate and Remediate Security-Related Incidents with Human Rights Implications by Public/Private Security Forces Relating to the Company's Activities

Human rights allegations related to security are referred to the site-level HRCO, who oversees the documentation of each allegation and assigns an internal team to assess the allegation. The outcome of the assessment process is reported to site-level management and the individual respondent. Depending on the level of severity of the case, the outcome is also reported to our global human rights team and legal counsel.

Where cases involve incidents related to public security personnel, the HRCO and site-level management report these incidents to the appropriate government institution for investigation and, when appropriate, urge action to prevent recurrence. Cases involving private security personnel are investigated by FCX and, where culpability is found, referred to the service provider for appropriate disciplinary action. We are committed to cooperating with human rights-related investigations and supporting appropriate remediation for proven violations caused or contributed to by FCX's actions.

For examples of how we addressed country level security-related incidents in 2025, please see Part C.

C. Country Implementation

Indonesia

Overview of Country Operations

PTFI operates one of the world's largest copper and gold mines at the Grasberg minerals district in the remote highlands of the Sudirman Mountain Range of Central Papua province, Indonesia, which is located on the western half of the island of New Guinea. PTFI produces copper concentrate that contains significant quantities of gold and silver. FCX has a 48.76% ownership interest in PTFI and manages its operations. With the completion of PTFI's smelter and precious metals refinery (collectively, PTFI's downstream processing facilities) in Gresik, Indonesia, during 2025, PTFI is a fully integrated producer of refined copper and gold.

Unless otherwise specified, this section focuses on implementation of the Voluntary Principles at PTFI Grasberg. PTFI has been implementing the Voluntary Principles at Grasberg since FCX became a signatory in 2000.

Indonesia has long faced separatist movements and civil and religious strife in a number of provinces. Several separatist groups have sought increased political independence for the western half of the island of New Guinea, which includes the province of Central Papua. In Central Papua, there have been attacks on civilians by separatists and conflicts between separatists and the Indonesia military and police. Separatist security incidents, including shootings, attacks on civil infrastructure and arson, continue to occur in Central Papua and other areas near PTFI Grasberg's operational and support areas, with significant numbers of armed conflicts between separatist actors and government security forces reported in the media. In 2025, based on publicly available reports, we believe that there were more than 55 incidents of separatist violence, resulting in approximately 79 fatalities outside of PTFI Grasberg's operational and support areas but within the province of Central Papua. Separately, we are aware that there continue to be allegations of human rights abuses committed by government security forces.

Additionally, challenges with illegal artisanal miners (illegal panners) present security-related risks. For example, in the past illegal panners have clashed with police who have attempted to move them away from our facilities. Security risks also stem from periodic social and ethnic tensions within local communities and in other areas of the province as well as from the presence of in-migration.

Public and Private Security. The Grasberg minerals district has been designated by the Indonesia government as one of Indonesia's national vital objects. This designation results in the police and, to a lesser extent, the military playing a significant (and legally mandated) role in protecting the area of our operations. The Indonesia government is responsible for employing police and military personnel and directing their operations. Prior to deployment, all military and police personnel receive human rights training. Approximately 1,600 police and military personnel were assigned directly to PTFI Grasberg's operational and support areas in 2025. In addition, the PTFI Grasberg security and risk management (SRM) team employed approximately 410 unarmed security employees and 730 unarmed private security contractors and transportation / logistics personnel on a rotational basis. These security arrangements have been necessary to enhance the protection of our employees, contractors and assets, particularly considering the nature of security challenges and the remote and challenging terrain.

PTFI's downstream processing facilities employed approximately 15 unarmed security employees and 170 unarmed private security contractors in 2025.

Shooting Incidents. Shootings and other violent incidents have occurred within the PTFI Grasberg operational and support areas, including along the road leading to our mining and milling operations, which in some instances have involved fatalities or injuries to our employees, contractors, government security personnel and civilians. Indonesia police have apprehended and arrested several individuals involved in these shootings, and prosecutions are underway in Indonesia's court system. The most recent incidents associated with the PTFI operations occurred in early 2026, and prior to that in 2021. PTFI actively monitors security conditions and the occurrence of incidents both regionally and within the operational and support areas.

While this report covers the 2025 reporting year, we have elected to report on relevant incidents occurring through April 30, 2026 below.

On January 8, 2026, a shooting incident occurred near a remote construction site in the highlands, when gunfire was exchanged between Indonesia military personnel posted at the site to provide security and a small group of armed individuals. Indonesian officials deployed additional forces to augment site security, and the PTFI workers at the site withdrew safely and without incident. To date, no person or group has claimed responsibility for the incident.

On February 11, 2026, a shooting incident involving two armored vehicles traveling in a buddy team occurred at a rest area along the road leading to our mining and milling operations. One member of the Indonesia military was killed, one PTFI contractor was seriously injured and later died from injuries sustained, and a second member of the Indonesia military was injured. Following the shooting, the road was closed until security forces could secure the area and additional security measures were implemented. A separatist group claimed responsibility for the incident.

On March 11, 2026, a shooting incident occurred in the Grasberg operational area, resulting in the death of one PTFI employee. Police exchanged gunfire with the individuals but did not make any apprehensions or arrests. Indonesia police secured the area, with operations in the area suspended during investigations and as necessary, risk mitigation measures were identified and implemented. Members of the same separatist group responsible for the February 2026 shooting have claimed responsibility for the incident.

In late April 2026, Indonesian military authorities announced that the leader of the separatist element claiming responsibility for the February and March shootings was killed in a law enforcement action in the neighboring regency of Puncak.

The SRM team continues to work closely with police and military authorities on investigating this series of shootings and on enhanced risk mitigation measures.

Security Incident. Overnight on February 27-28, 2025, PTFI experienced a security incident involving a robbery at its Kuala Kencana Light Industrial Park, which is located within PTFI Grasberg's support area. SRM team members contacted the police, who fired warning shots and apprehended an armed perpetrator. The individual, who was armed with a machete, was shot during apprehension after failing to follow police instructions. The individual received treatment at a PTFI medical clinic before being transported to Timika for surgery and released back into police custody. On July 3, 2025, the individual was sentenced to three years and four months in prison by the Timika District Court.

The safety of our workforce is a critical concern, and PTFI continues to work with the Indonesia government to enhance security and address security-related issues within PTFI Grasberg's operational and support areas, as well as at PTFI's downstream processing facilities.

For geographic context, please refer to Figure 1 for a map of PTFI Grasberg's operational and support areas under its special mining license (IUPK).

Illegal Artisanal Mining in the Grasberg Minerals District. While artisanal mining within PTFI Grasberg's operational area is illegal under Indonesia law, illegal panners pan for residual unrecovered gold in the controlled riverine tailings system that remains following the milling process in the highlands. In 2025, an average of 5,900 illegal panners (including family members associated with the illegal panners) had established camps at various points within the lowlands and highlands near PTFI's operations.

PTFI utilizes a cross-functional management plan to help mitigate the potential social, security, safety, environmental and operational risks associated with illegal panning, with the ultimate objective of reducing the number of people within the operating area in the Grasberg minerals district. Efforts include educational campaigns, strengthening check points, increasing unmanned aerial systems patrols and focusing on joint patrols with third-party security personnel. When issues are identified, the joint patrols, which include representatives from PTFI's workforce, local police and private security personnel, inform the broader cross-functional team. PTFI's community liaison officers, the PTFI SRM team and third-party contractors also work together to proactively and continuously engage with the illegal panners and their families on operational changes in an effort to manage their expectations, encourage them to find other ways to make a living, and to minimize risks to themselves and the operations.

Grievances. At PTFI Grasberg, community grievances are received via the community grievance mechanism. Employee grievances are directed to human resources/industrial relations or Papuan affairs teams as appropriate. Contractor grievances are either addressed by their employers or directed to PTFI Grasberg's human resources/industrial relations, Papuan affairs or contractor compliance teams, as appropriate. HRCOs provide coaching to human rights ambassadors from contractor companies on grievance handling, as requested.

In 2025, no security-related grievances were received via PTFI's internal and external grievance mechanisms. Refer to our 2025 Annual Report on Sustainability for more information on grievances received via the Compliance Line and community grievance mechanism.

Engagement with Stakeholders on Country Implementation

In 2025, PTFI Grasberg continued to engage with stakeholders at national, regional and local levels regarding the implementation of the Voluntary Principles and the UNGPs and respect for human rights. PTFI Grasberg's HRCOs and the SRM team regularly engage Satuan Tugas Pengamanan regarding best practices of Voluntary Principles implementation.

In 2025, PTFI Grasberg continued its engagement with community leaders, partner organizations and local authorities within and near its operational area. In addition, PTFI leadership and staff (including security and community liaison officers) at Grasberg met frequently with community members and local authorities to discuss updates on operations, economic development programs, community transport routes, emergency support, security matters, illegal mining and customary rights at Grasberg.

In September 2025, PTFI Grasberg experienced an external mud rush incident that resulted in seven fatalities and temporarily suspended operations. Following the incident, PTFI's security and community teams formed a collaborative partnership to proactively manage communications in the village and panner communities and to anticipate any emerging security issues. More information on outreach and training activities is presented below.

Voluntary Principles Considerations in the Selection of Private Security Providers and Formulation of Contractual Agreements with Private Security Providers, as well as Arrangement with Public Security Forces

In 2025, PTFI Grasberg employed three primary private security contractor companies, which employed unarmed personnel to assist with the protection of Company assets. PTFI Grasberg also employed three transportation/logistics contractor companies, providing unarmed personnel to assist with airport security screening, passenger/supply convoy logistics and driving vehicles for personnel and logistical support. PTFI's downstream processing facilities employed one private security contractor company. Contracts with private security providers and transportation/logistics contractor companies state that contractors are required to comply with both our Human Rights Policy and the Voluntary Principles, including participation in human rights training. Furthermore, private security companies are subject to FCeX and are required to comply with FCX's BPCC, which is inclusive of our Human Rights Policy.

PTFI, like all businesses and residents of Indonesia, relies on the Indonesia government for the maintenance of public order, upholding the rule of law and protection of personnel and property. From the outset of PTFI Grasberg's operations, the Indonesia government has looked to PTFI to provide logistical and infrastructure support and assistance for these necessary services because of the limited resources of the Indonesia government and the remote location of and lack of development in the province of Central Papua. PTFI's financial support of the Indonesia government security institutions assigned to PTFI's operations area represents a prudent response to PTFI Grasberg's requirements and commitments to protect its workforce and property, better ensuring that personnel are properly fed and lodged and have the logistical resources to patrol PTFI Grasberg's roads and secure its area of operations. In addition, the provision of such support is consistent with our philosophy of responsible corporate citizenship and reflects our commitment to pursue practices that protect and respect human rights.

PTFI maintains memorandums of understanding (MOUs) with Indonesia's national police and military, which were updated in July 2025 and May 2025, respectively, covering five-year terms to support PTFI Grasberg. In October 2025, PTFI and Indonesia's provincial police effected an MOU covering a three-year term to support PTFI's downstream processing facilities. These MOUs detail the working relationships between PTFI and public security personnel, such as areas of support, coordination and commitment to PTFI policies and procedures, including business ethics and human rights. Under the terms of the MOUs, PTFI does not provide munitions of any kind (whether lethal or non-lethal) and does not exercise any command and/or control of the Indonesia military or police. The Voluntary Principles and FCX's Human Rights Policy are incorporated as an attachment to the MOUs.

PTFI pays support costs for government-provided security, including various infrastructure and other costs, including food, housing, fuel, travel, vehicle repairs, allowances to cover incidental and administrative costs, and community assistance programs conducted by the military and police.

In 2025, USD$59 million, or 72% of PTFI Grasberg's security budget, was directed to its own internal civilian security department, including USD$46 million in employee and contractor direct costs and USD$13 million in associated overhead. The remainder of PTFI Grasberg's security budget (USD$23 million or 28%) represented support costs for its government-provided security, including USD$21 million in direct costs and USD$2million in associated overhead.

Indonesia police provide the majority of security and have overall responsibility for the security of the Grasberg minerals district given its designation as a national vital object. In 2025, 56% of the support costs for PTFI Grasberg's government-provided security were directed to police units. The remainder was directed to military units which provide specialized security skill sets such as Navy and Air Force personnel for port and airport security, respectively.

Under the terms of the PTFI Grasberg MOUs, 68% of overall support costs for government-provided security was provided in-kind such as food, housing, fuel, travel and vehicle repairs. Provision of food represents the single largest category. The remaining Indonesia government support was provided in the form of monetary allowances for police and military units, covering incidental and administrative costs (including community assistance programs conducted by the military and police), and a voluntary monthly support allowance for individual service members, which are paid to and managed by the central government in Jakarta. The voluntary monthly support allowance is intended to defray the hardships of the remote assignment and provide a base living allowance for assigned personnel.

All costs associated with assistance to the Indonesia government are subject to internal controls, including annual review by outside counsel and auditors.

Examples of Supporting Outreach, Education and Training

In 2025, PTFI Grasberg's HRCOs provided approximately 19,100 hours of training on our Human Rights Policy and the Voluntary Principles.

- Induction or refresher training for approximately 820 non-security employees.
- Training on our Human Rights Policy and the Voluntary Principles for more than 400 security employees and approximately 920 private security contractors.
- Pre-deployment training for approximately 1,500 police and military personnel under the PTFI Grasberg MOUs.^{1,2}
- Training for approximately 4,890 non-security contractors on our Human Rights Policy.
- Awareness training for approximately 440 on-site visitors and community members.

Human rights refresher training is mandatory for all employees and contractors every two years, and security professionals must undergo mandatory refresher training on an annual basis. In 2025, the majority of training for employees and on-site contractors was conducted virtually; training sessions for security employees and private security contractors were conducted either in a classroom setting or virtually; and training sessions for community members were conducted in a classroom setting. All of these trainings were delivered by HRCOs.

PTFI Grasberg's HRCOs regularly conduct educational programs and activities in the community to help raise awareness and understanding of human rights. In 2025, this included conducting several workshops and trainings for local community members on women's and children's rights.

² Host government security not directly assigned to PTFI Grasberg's operational and support areas may also be accommodated in PTFI's approximately 2,900 square kilometer operational and support areas. When possible, PTFI Grasberg works to promote awareness of our Human Rights Policy and the Voluntary Principles among these individuals, including via posters, distribution of Voluntary Principles pocketbooks and awareness training. No non-MOU security personnel received this awareness training in 2025.

PTFI maintains a Human Rights Ambassador program designed to extend education and awareness of business and human rights in the province of Central Papua and the Gresik regency in East Java. Ambassadors are volunteers from contractor companies who are trained by PTFI and then tasked with promoting human rights and conducting human rights training in their respective companies.

In 2025, PTFI's downstream processing facilities provided human rights and Voluntary Principles training to all of its private security contractor personnel and to all new security employees during their onboarding. In addition, approximately 130 non-security employees and 2,500 non-security contractors received training on our Human Rights and Social Performance Policies. Our Human Rights Policy is posted in various locations throughout the operation.

Company Procedure to Review Progress on Voluntary Principles Implementation at Local Facilities

In 2025, FCX corporate personnel reviewed implementation of the Voluntary Principles at PTFI Grasberg through site visits and bi-weekly meetings with HRCOs and/or the SRM team. HRCOs also issue a monthly report to site and corporate management on human rights training, engagement activities and the status of any reported human rights grievances.

In 2025, we completed an HRIA at PTFI's downstream processing facilities. The HRIA at PTFI's downstream processing facilities confirmed the overall strength of PTFI's commitment to and implementation of the Voluntary Principles and identified no negative human rights impacts involving PTFI security employees or contractors during the assessment period.

In April 2026, the Copper Mark was revalidated at PTFI Grasberg following reasonable level assurance engagement by an independent public accounting firm in 2025 and subsequent review process by the Copper Mark organization. The assurance also supported FCX's International Council on Mining and Metal assurance and validation procedure commitment and participation in the VPI Corporate Pillar Verification Framework. Assurance activities included an on-site visit to PTFI Grasberg in June 2025 and an evaluation of its security and human rights risk management systems.

Peru

Overview of Country Operations

Cerro Verde is an open-pit copper and molybdenum mining complex located 20 miles southwest of Arequipa. Cerro Verde is majority owned and operated by FCX, which acquired the mine at the time of its privatization by the Peruvian government in 1994 through a predecessor company. The remaining shareholders are SMM Cerro Verde Netherlands B.V., Compañía de Minas Buenaventura S.A.A. and other minority shareholders whose Cerro Verde shares are publicly traded on the Lima Stock Exchange.

Cerro Verde, like all businesses and residents of Peru, relies on the Peru government for the maintenance of public order, upholding the rule of law and the protection of personnel and property. Beginning in December 2022 and continuing in 2023, heightened tensions, protests and social unrest emerged in Peru following a change in the country's political leadership. While demonstrations and road blockages subsided in 2023, the political situation in Peru remains complex, with its president being impeached in October 2025. The potential for civil unrest, including in relation to mining operations, and disruption of commerce and supply chains continues. Other operations in the region have encountered significant issues with trespassers, illegal miners and civil demonstrations that impact their operations, expansion projects, logistical supply and product transport. Such protests have occasionally been accompanied by acts of violence and property damage and continue intermittently in the region. Such civil unrest has not significantly impacted Cerro Verde's results, and the area directly surrounding Arequipa and the operation has not been as prone to significant civil unrest. However, we continue to monitor the situation with a priority on safety and security.

Public and Private Security. At the end of 2025, Cerro Verde employed 11 unarmed security employees and 299 private security contractors. Some private security contractors assigned to the protection of expatriate personnel and explosives storage are armed. In addition to these security personnel, the national government has assigned Peru National Police (PNP) to the site in accordance with Legislative Decree N° 1267, Supreme Decrees 026-2017-IN, N° 003-2017-IN and N° 018-2017-IN, and Emergency Decree N° 006-2017 (article 11). Teams of 30 PNP members were assigned to the site on 15-day rotations. A total of 837 members of the PNP rotated through the site during 2025.

Grievances. In 2025, 242 grievances were either reported to Cerro Verde's HRCO or received via other internal and external grievance mechanisms and directed to Cerro Verde's HRCO. Of these, 232 were related to labor compliance, six to contracts, three to workplace harassment, and one to sexual harassment. Most grievances received in 2025 related to contractors or their employees. In 2025, no security-related grievances were received by Cerro Verde's HRCO.

Regardless of the type and credibility of the allegations received, all cases reported are documented, reviewed and closed by Cerro Verde's HRCO, as appropriate. Depending on the level of severity of the case, the outcome is reported to our global human rights team and legal counsel.

Engagement with Stakeholders on Country Implementation

Cerro Verde continues to participate in the country-level implementation of the Voluntary Principles in Peru and attends working group meetings when scheduled. At a November 2025 event commemorating the 15th anniversary of the Voluntary Principles working group in Peru, Cerro Verde's HRCO presented on the site's Voluntary Principles implementation, challenges and lessons learned as part of a panel on good business practices. Cerro Verde also continues to participate in discussions on human rights issues and implementation with the National Society of Mining, Oil and Energy on the interface between social and security issues. Additionally, Cerro Verde participated in a workshop hosted by the American Chamber of Commerce of Peru on the importance of responsible, risk-based private security management practices.

Voluntary Principles Considerations in the Selection of Private Security Providers and Formulation of Contractual Agreements with Private Security Providers, as well as Arrangement with Public Security Forces

As part of its security program, Cerro Verde maintains its own internal security department and contracts one private security company. Both employees and contractors perform functions such as protecting Cerro Verde facilities, monitoring shipments of supplies and products, assisting in traffic control and aiding in emergency response operations. Cerro Verde's costs for its internal civilian security department totaled USD$9 million in 2025. Contracts with private security providers include specific language related to FCX's Human Rights Policy and the Voluntary Principles, as well as our BPCC. Furthermore, new suppliers (including contractors) are subject to FCX's online due diligence platform FCeX and are required to comply with our BPCC, which is inclusive of our Human Rights Policy.

Cerro Verde has limited public security forces in support of its operation, with the arrangement defined through an Inter-institutional Cooperation Agreement with the PNP. Under Peruvian law, PNP officers may volunteer to be assigned to operations, such as Cerro Verde, during their scheduled leave. This allows the officers to supplement their government salaries at a rate set by the government. They retain their full powers as officers of the law when performing this role and wear police uniforms but are unarmed. The agreement was amended a fourth time in December 2025 to extend the term by two years. The agreement details the working relationship between Cerro Verde and the PNP, including areas of support and coordination. A commitment to the Voluntary Principles is included as an addendum to the agreement.

Cerro Verde's share of support costs for government-provided security approximated USD$1 million in 2025. This support is primarily remuneration but also includes a limited amount for in-kind support (e.g., daily bus transportation to and from the mine, food and incidentals) provided by Cerro Verde. The amount and modality of payment is in accordance with Peruvian law (Supreme Decree N° 152-2017-EF, Ministry Act N° 552-2017-IN and Legislative Decree N° 1267).

Examples of Supporting Outreach, Education and Training

In 2025, Cerro Verde provided approximately 7,700 hours of training on human rights and the Voluntary Principles. The training included:

- Induction training for new employees on human rights as well as a booklet on human rights and internal labor regulations.
- Annual human rights refresher training for approximately 4,700 employees with a focus on labor rights, freedom of association and collective bargaining, discrimination (including equal pay for equal work), harassment (including sexual harassment), forced labor, child labor and how to report issues and concerns.
- Refresher training for employees on our Human Rights Policy embedded within environmental and health and safety trainings.

- Training on human rights and the Voluntary Principles for all security employees and contractors.³
- Pre-deployment training on human rights and the Voluntary Principles for all members of the PNP who rotated through the site.
- More than 3,900 hours of training for non-security contractors on our Human Rights Policy.
- Awareness training for more than 2,200 on-site visitors and community members.

Company Procedure to Review Progress on Voluntary Principles Implementation at Local Facilities

FCX corporate personnel review implementation of the Voluntary Principles at Cerro Verde through site visits and meetings with Cerro Verde's HRCO and security manager. In 2025, we continued to hold weekly meetings to discuss and address complex issues. We also initiated quarterly reviews of grievances received by Cerro Verde's HRCO.

In 2024, we completed the second HRIA at our Cerro Verde operations. The HRIA was designed to assess progress made in managing human rights risks and impacts as well as to gain an updated understanding of potential human rights risks and impacts at the site, including those related to security. In 2025, we continued to advance HRIA action items that drive the continuous improvement of our human rights related management systems and processes. This included initiating a self-assessment of Cerro Verde's internal grievance mechanisms to drive continual improvement in their alignment with the UNGPs Effectiveness Criteria. See the FCX Cerro Verde Operations HRIA Summary for more information.

Cerro Verde's Copper Mark award was revalidated in March 2025. As part of its Copper Mark revalidation process, Cerro Verde underwent on-site reasonable level assurance of its conformance with Copper Mark 2.0 by an independent public accounting firm. The review included an evaluation of Cerro Verde's security and human rights risk management systems (supporting FCX's participation in the VPI Corporate Pillar Verification Framework).

Other Country-level Updates

Chile. El Abra is an open-pit copper mining complex located 47 miles north of Calama in Chile's El Loa province of the northern Chilean region of Antofagasta. We have completed substantial drilling and evaluations and have identified a large sulfide reserve in support of a potential major mill project similar to the large-scale concentrator at Cerro Verde. In March 2026, an environmental impact study was submitted to Chile regulatory authorities for a potential major expansion at El Abra.

In 2025, our El Abra operation provided human rights and Voluntary Principles training to all of its private security contractor personnel. In addition, approximately 590 employees and 60 non-security contractors received training on our Human Rights, Social Performance and Environmental Policies. Our Human Rights Policy is posted in various locations throughout the operation. El Abra employs one private security contractor company, which deploys unarmed personnel to assist with the protection of El Abra assets. Government security personnel are not directly assigned to the site. El Abra continues to participate in the country-level implementation of the Voluntary Principles in Chile and attends working group meetings when scheduled.

United States. In 2025, we completed HRIAs at our Climax and Henderson operations in Colorado. Climax mine is an open-pit molybdenum mine located 13 miles northeast of Leadville, Colorado. The Henderson operation consists of a block-cave underground mining complex feeding a concentrator and is located 42 miles west of Denver, Colorado. At the time of the assessments, the Climax operation employed one private security contractor company, and the Henderson operation employed none. Government security personnel are not directly assigned to either site. The HRIAs did not identify any actual or potential negative impacts related to security employees or contractors.

D. Lessons or Issues from this Reporting Year, as well as Plans or Opportunities to Advance the Voluntary Principles for the Organization

We continue to identify opportunities for continuous improvement in our implementation of the Voluntary Principles across our operations. Plans for 2026 include continued attendance at VPI and Corporate Pillar meetings, as well as participation in plenary sessions of the Voluntary Principles and in-country working groups in Peru and Chile.

We continue to advance our implementation of the UNGPs, including through our HRIAs. In 2026, this includes plans to complete HRIAs at our Fort Madison and El Paso operations and acting on recommendations resulting from the HRIAs completed at our Colorado operations and PTFI's downstream processing facilities.

We are also working to improve our workforce's knowledge through training. In 2026, we plan to continue deploying our global human rights training module and continue using feedback provided through HRIAs to drive continuous improvement of our human rights and Voluntary Principles trainings.
